

Dr Fulgence BINAGWA

Fulgence is a medical doctor, a holder of an MBA, a PhD in Management and various management diplomas and social initiatives.

He works as a Director of Programmes for Pan African Christian AIDS Network, responsible for strategic development, testing and implementation of modules for HIV and AIDS training. He also provides guidance in areas of mentoring, systems development in finance, monitoring and evaluation.

Fulgence has more than 15 years international experience in management, training, leadership, facilitation, partnership building, fundraising and marketing in the public and private sector.

He has published, on his own or jointly, manuals and booklets on leadership, stakeholder relations and capacity building, among others.

His training and experiential background make him a well-rounded participant in the STPTAP. He lends himself well to roles in government and community liaison, faith community and the development and management of programmes.