

Dr Lillian Kimani

Lillian holds a PhD in Social Psychology and is a certified workplace coach. She is the Managing Director of Results Coaching Africa (Botswana). She also works as a training consultant. A professional mentor, she provides coaching, mentoring and training services.

Lillian is competent in the design, coordination and management of HIV/AIDS projects.

Her sizable publications list reveals a strong slant towards issues of gender and HIV/AIDS. The topics she has treated range from gender and organizational change, education, politics and sexual violence, to name a few.

She is a member of the International Coaching Federation and the Kenya Red Cross Society.

Her ability to coordinate and facilitate government and NGO dialogue on HIV/AIDS is experience that holds significance to the STFTAP.
